

Data Analytics Assignment.

Definitions.

1. What is a database - a database is space where we store information. The information is used to solve problems and build businesses.
2. Different types of data - structured data and unstructured data.
3. Structured data - is data arranged in columns and rows.
an example of structured data is a table or excel
4. Unstructured data - this is unorganised and inconsistent data. e.g. social media post, it comes in different formats.
5. Data Management System - the DMS allows us to interact with the data stored in the database.
6. Data Warehouse - this is a central place where multiple databases are stored.
7. Multiple databases can be stored in a single data warehouse DW.
8. Multiple tables can be stored in Schema in a database.
9. Schemas are folders (shelves) where information is stored in an organised fashion.
10. Information moves from databases to a data warehouse through pipelines.
11. Online Transactional Processing databases are responsible for holding transactional information at a point of sale (POS).
12. OLAP downloads in data at intervals e.g. mid night to (OLAP) Online Analytical Processing for analysis & obtaining insights from the data.
13. Databricks - is a cloud based platform used by different practitioners such as analysts, data engineers and business intelligence to simultaneously work on data using different languages like SQL and Python. AI